Canada

- The S&P/TSX Composite increased 0.89% on the week led by an increase of 7.29% in the Energy Care sector.
- Canada's labour market shed 68,000 jobs last month as tighter public health restrictions continued or were introduced in many regions of the country to slow the third wave of the COVID-19 pandemic. Statistics Canada's Labour Force Survey data showed the employment rate was 8.2%, up from 8.1% in April, leaving employment at 3% below pre-pandemic levels. Most of the jobs lost, 54,000, were part time, following a drop of 78,000 in April. The number of people working full time was down by just 13,800, following a decline of 129,000 the month before.

United States

- The S&P/500 Composite increased 0.61% on the week.
- US job growth picked up in May as payrolls increased by 559,000 after a revised 278,000 gain in April, according to US Labor Department data. The jobless rate dropped to 5.8%, while the labor participation rate was little changed. Restaurants and bars reported the largest payrolls increase, with a gain of 186,000 jobs. The payrolls gain still leaves the U.S. labor market 7.6 million jobs short of pre-pandemic levels. The number of long-term unemployed, those out of work for 27 weeks or longer, declined by 431,000 in May, the most since 2011.
